Dr Ed VAN WIJK*NED

Nominated by Dutch Boxing Federation to the position of Chair of the World Boxing Medical and Anti-Doping Committee.

PROFILE

Dr Ed van Wijk is a general practitioner and sports medicine physician with more than 40 years of experience in boxing medicine. He currently serves as a member of the World Boxing Medical Committee and has held senior medical roles at national, European and international levels.

EXPERIENCE

His professional background combines general practice, sports medicine and extensive ringside experience. Over the course of his career, Dr van Wijk has worked at four Olympic Games as a ring doctor and has also served as Chairman of the AIBA Doping Commission. He has developed broad expertise in athlete safety, medical clearance, anti-doping, competition medicine and the management of medical issues both inside and outside the ring.

Within boxing governance, he has served as Chairman of the Dutch Medical Commission, a member of the European Boxing Medical Commission, a member of the World Boxing Medical Committee and previously as Chairman of the AIBA Medical Commission. He also has experience with medical committees in other sports, including triathlon and cycling.

Dr van Wijk's event experience includes national and international championships as well as Olympic competition. His work has required difficult medical decisions, including advising athletes not to compete on health grounds and dealing with anti-doping cases affecting eligibility.

His approach emphasises athlete welfare, consistency of medical standards, transparency and evidence-based decision-making. He has highlighted the importance of clear policies, uniform regulations and strong cooperation among medical professionals across Member Federations.

PRIORITIES

As a candidate for Chair of the Medical and Anti-Doping Committee, Dr van Wijk has identified boxer safety, improved ringside protocols, concussion and traumatic brain injury prevention, weight-management risks, transparent medical governance and fair anti-doping procedures as priorities. His stated objective is to strengthen World Boxing's medical framework and ensure that athlete health and safety remain central to the organisation's development.
